Men's Sophomore Honorary Reorganizes

By Eddie Rochester

Lances, junior men's honorary leadership fraternity, is back on the University of Kentucky campus after a wartime absence of three years.

The honorary, which once a year taps outstanding sophomores for membership during their junior year, has been reorganized by a group of former members now back on campus, and will soon announce its selections. The organization is limited to 20 men, but probably no more than a dozen will be chosen at this time, it was announced.

The reorganizing group, under the direction of its faculty adviser, W. S. Ward of the English department, includes Cal Fossell, Jack Atchison, Jack Welch, Sam Weakley, and Lewis Sawin.

Leadership, Scholarship Considered Membership in Lances is not based on fraternity or other affiliation. Scholarship and leadership abilities are the qualities taken into consideration. To be eligible for selection this quarter a man must have an average standing of 1.5 for his college career and be not less than a third quarter sophomore or more than a second quarter junior at the beginning of the coming fall term. From all men having these qualifications those with greatest leadership traits will be selected.

Members serve during their junior year, being replaced by new initiates at the end of the spring quarter. The reorganizing group, however, includes men who have already served their allotted year, and will be replaced by the new initiates soon to be chosen.

"The Mystic 13" Lances has had a long, fascinating, and at times violent history. Now a dignified leadership honorary, it was once a secret society named the Mystic 13 whose hazing methods were so rough that the organization was once banished from the campus.

Lexington students may have heard of the Mystic 13 through their fathers' probably have. Organized in 1902, it shares with Lamp and Cross, senior men's leadership honorary, the distinction of being the oldest honorary fraternity on the campus. It was from the first a junior honorary and social organization.

Invitations to membership in the old Mystic 13—so named because there were always 13 members and only 13—were scrawled in red ink on torn pieces of brown wrapping paper. These scrawled notes would be found by candidates in weird and unexpected places—dangled from the tail of a coat, crumpled up in a coffee cup, or stuffed into a salad. After invitations were extended, the pledges were required to wear black arm-bands bearing a red 13 pierced by a dagger.

Initiation Oddities On initiation day, pledges were instructed to go to some particular spot and there await instructions.

They were kept waiting for hours, perched on a fire plug, a house top, or some equally uncomfortable place.

Hours later they would be picked up by actives driving a wagon and team of horses (those were the days of lively stables, remember). Then would begin the journey to the site of the initiation. This journey was nightmarish. Pledges were cuffed together, thrown down, stepped on, and generally made miserable.

One particular bit of unpleasantness was the requirement that each man wear a strip of adhesive tape on the hand. Under the tape was a pad in the shape of a 13—a pad saturated with acid, so that the number was burned into the flesh. The initiation site was usually a lonely spot far in the country, many times in a cave.

Mystic 13 Disbanded In 1928 rough hazing sent one pledge to the hospital, and the University ordered the Mystic 13 disbanded. But soon after another organization, this time dedicated to higher ideals, appeared on the campus. This was Lances. Outwardly a new organization, it was really a continuation of the Mystic 13—not in the spirit of hazing, but in the higher sense of leadership.

Generations Of Lances Membership in Lances has not been confined to one generation in certain families. This fact was highlighted at a dinner given by Lances in December 1942, shortly before most of its members entered the armed forces. At this dinner were Bart Peak and Louis Hillenmeyer—Mystic 13 members—and their sons, Bart Peak Jr. and Bob Hillenmeyer—members of Lances, the organization which had taken the place of the Mystic 13.

Lances men have always been leaders on the campus, and Lances has been a leader in campus activities, with Sukey, Lances sponsored an annual spring carnival.

Fraternities and sororities contributed booths, including, to quote The Kernel, "the 'Horror House' of the Alpha Gams, the 'Hoop-La' game of the Chi-O's, 'Baseball Pitching' with a coed as your victim" as planned by the Kappas, and many other . . . antics." Your reporter recalls this last exhibit. A well-directed baseball, hitting a target, would trip a device which dropped a comely Kappa into a tank of icy water. On the balcony of the Union building was a night club, featuring orchestra and floor show.

Lances has its more serious side, however. Each year Lances has donated scholarships to needy junior men. This practice will be continued by the new group.

So Lances is back. And the achievements of the past, the new group says, are marks which they intend to equal and to surpass if they can.

Julian Knippenberg is the newly elected master of Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity. Other officers are Dave Francis, exchequer; Cordell H. Martin, historian, and John Hopkins, clerk.

Eligible Men File For ODK

Omicron Delta Kappa, senior men's honorary, has announced that men may file petitions for membership now. To be eligible for membership, men must have at least a 1.5 standing, at least five points under the system announced in last week's Kernel.

Petitions may be filed until noon Thursday, May 2. Petition forms may be obtained at any time from Mrs. Gorman at the office of the dean of men in the Administration building, or at the information desk in the Union building. They may be returned only to the office of the dean of men.

The point list is on the petition blanks in order that those who have not checked their points may do so by obtaining a petition.

Life, Liberty, and Pursuit

By Adele Denman

LIFE: The girls who are having a small brush with the education courses, are really learning the facts of life. They claim that such books as are on the level of Peter Rabbit, and The Little Red Hen have a lot to offer. One girl was gaily whipping through a book about bunnies, to get material for an Easter story, and she came to a passage, "And so mamma bunny woke up one morning, and she was surprised to discover that she was the mother of twenty-one little bunnies." Throwing the book across the room, this tender coed refused to peruse the pages further claiming it was worse than Forever Amber. "Why do they let children read trash like that," she questioned.

The favorite song of one lazy geology student, who had gotten tired of field trips is, "Just a Settin' and A Rockin'."

You have all seen the leetle gals with the mortar boards on top of the fertile minds that got them in the junior honorary. Imagine the feelings one proud mortar boarder had when a strange man pointed to her head and questioned, "Smorgas board?" Another blow to these gals is to be called "mortar brains" also.

The Sig Eps have done it again. They discovered two young squirrels in their house, and have tamed them to such an extent that the squirrels can't resist climbing every-one who enters the house. But the final blow came when the squirrels got too friendly with the house-mother's nylons. That did it! DID YOU KNOW?

Polly Tuttle's parents live on one of the islands that was hardest hit by the tidal wave. Come on you feature writers, here's one.

LIBERTY: Notice to all men. What do you look like? Are you tall, tender, and a good artist's model? If so, the Art department wants you. Now if you are just not the type with an interesting face, there isn't any need to get excited, but if you are, see Dr. Rammeis in the Art department right away.

Now that we have had honors night, and most of you women are Sigma-something-or-the-other, for your interesting standings, let's look this situation over. You may be of some use, 'cause someone has got to be. These honoraries have gotten pretty low, in fact the men like to refer to them as "ladies sewing circles." Cwens has sarcastically been referred to as a "woman usher club." Now really you outsiders, now that you have gotten together—stand out!

Notice to all persons who have any critical ability in drama or music. If you would like to be of service, you can be. It stands to reason that all the plays produced at Guilford don't make Broadway producers blush, anymore than the concerts draw flocks of patrons away from Carnegie hall. Let's be reasonable about this. We believe that it would certainly stimulate the cultural to be more critical; if someone had the nerve to say something stunk and knew what he was talking about. Now I just bet The Kernel would be grateful if one or two good critics would offer their services.

Safe upon the solid rock the ugly houses stand: Come and see my shining palace built upon the sand!

E. St. V. Millay

At last the racing season is over! And it's about time. Everybody's tired of losing money.

What interested us most at the races were the various methods used for picking the winners of the day. It seems that most track enthusiasts are quite superstitious. We bet on every eleventh horse. Not because the racing form recommended it, but because eleven happens to be our lucky number. But did it do any good? NO! We gave that up after awhile and decided to lay our bets on those horses which appeared attractive. But did we know anything about horses? NO! So we quit that and decided to bet on the colors of the jockeys' shirts. Someone had told us that our soul was red with gold polka dots, so we bet on a jockey who wore that combination. Did we win? NO! This time we hit upon the idea of womanly intuition. And it worked!! All we did was to wait until it was almost too late to place a bet, and then we dashed up to the little window and yelled out the first name that came to our doped up mind. Sometimes we'd find ourselves betting on a nag that ran in the Derby of 1811, but a lot of times we did some good.

Found on a desk in one of Dr. Parquhar's classes is just a fragment, that we like. Will whoever wrote it please send in the rest of it?

"It is my opinion that we devote entirely too much time in attempting to master the English language. In spite of the fact that we can speak it when we are six years old, read it by the time we are nine, and write intelligently at the age of twelve, we still devote a considerable portion of our fifteen years of academic training to 'mastering' it. A great deal of this period is spent in learning words that fifty per cent of our population cannot understand and in learning mechanisms of expressions that imply only prissiness."

A pajama party was held in Jewell hall Thursday night. For entertainment, Dean Haselden gave a little thingamajig which was really cute, and Dell Denman wrote a skit that able and a fur jacket, I swear I didn't know that there was a man in the audience. Honestly! But I would like to know how he got there!!

BIOLOGY TO WIN NEXT WAR, SAYS PHYSICIST:

Dr. F. G. Slack, head of the Physics Department at Vanderbilt, thinks that the atomic bomb has been overrated.

"I don't believe the atomic bomb will play an important part in the next war," Dr. Slack stated, explaining that he thought it would be outlawed as an instrument of war, like poison gas.

The physicist pointed out that "chemistry won World War I; physics won World War II. It seems very likely that biology will be the decisive science in the next war."

Dr. Slack said he felt sure that if as many biologist were assigned to work on a "killer" as there were physicists working on the atomic bomb, and an equal amount of money were allocated to the project, a deadly biological weapon could be found.

Confident that Russia already knows the scientific facts necessary for the manufacture of the atomic bomb, he said, "I am, in general, in favor of free dissemination of scientific knowledge."

Bring Back Men's Honoraries

With the reactivation of Pershing Rilles and Scabbard and Blade in September two of six men's professional societies will be taken from the inactive list. At present only three of the nine such organizations listed by the University are active.

Only the oldest students on the campus can remember the days of the Scabbard and Blade dances, and the election of company sponsors. Until 1942, the leadership fraternities, Lamp and Cross, Lances, and Keys added much to the traditional campus activity, but with the war they went the way of all men's organizations.

Also among the war fatalities were the recognition groups: Sigma Gamma Epsilon, and Sigma Phi Sigma. The Aviation club passed out of sight, as did the K-club. Mr. Shively sponsored the club which banded together the men who had won varsity letters in major sports. And the animal husbandry group, Block and Bridle, became a memory.

The Military expects a sufficient number in their advanced class by September to revive their societies—why not bring back to life the others, both professional and honorary? Certainly there are enough men enrolled now. Freshmen men should not miss the opportunity to be elected by their fraternity to Keys, just as the junior men should be given the chance to make Lances.

Tuesday night at the Women's Convocation, the organizations for women bestowed honors for the year and pledged new members. The men should be given similar recognition. They can be active in clubs other than the Veterans' club. Indeed it would be an asset to the whole campus to have the traditional men's groups reactivated.

An advanced class such as the military require is not needed in all the societies, and there are many eligible members back in school. Why wait any longer? Bring back the institutions that are a part of the University in the minds of the pre-war grads for the new generation to enjoy. They've missed enough of college life.

Kernel Profits To Finance New Journalism Building

The University's student-owned newspaper—The Kernel—made this week's edition of Editor and Publisher, in an article written by Dr. Niel Plummer, head of the Journalism department.

Quoting—"With more than $100,000 in student-owned property and investments to back them, journalism students at the University of Kentucky are moving near their goal of a student-owned publications building. They plan to amortize the cost, $150,000, over a term fitted to future earnings of The Kernel printing plant.

The article goes on to tell how The Kernel began back in 1924 when faculty members backed students with their personal credit. And how the plant has expanded until today the department, one of the 34 schools accredited by the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, directs the operation of a complete printing plant in full-time operation on annual self-sustaining budgets ranging between $30,000 and $50,000.

Those on the University campus who are less familiar with the workings of The Kernel should know that they as a part of the student body have a definite interest in this investment. Here in the new building will be lasting and tangible proof of student enterprise. Not only has the plant helped young men and women work their way through school, and furnished experience for future journalists, but with its profits will also make a lasting contribution to the University in a Journalism building.

At many colleges the papers are financed by the administrations, and many are "party" papers instead of the professional type that The Kernel strives to be. The staff feels that in its student-owned newspaper, and in the contribution it is making, UK has something unique among colleges—and something to be very proud of.

Vet About UK

By Clayton Roland

School Vets Leave Pay

Some University vets may not know they are entitled to 2½ days leave for each month in school.

In figuring the amount of leave due, absences are deductible from the number of days due the veteran. Four class absences constitute the loss of one day. This leave is automatically given to those vets enrolled under Public Law 16, however vets under Public Law 346 may apply for their's in Room 204. Administration building, before it is received.

A veteran under P.L. 346 should think twice before applying for this leave as it is deducted from his total period of entitlement. A person not planning to use his entire period of entitlement would advantageously use this leave provision in the law.

Maurice Jackson, VA assistant training officer, said yesterday, the Veterans Administration is sending a representative to discuss summer school attendance and accumulated pay at a meeting in Memorial hall, at 4 p.m. Wednesday, May 1.

Attention Pacific Vets!

The chief censor out in the Pacific area is doing an about-face and wants to return all confiscated still photos, movie films and diaries to their rightful owners. A photo history of the Pacific war—1,000,000 pictures and 300,000 feet of movies—now stored in a Honolulu warehouse waits to be claimed by ex-GI's and civilians in that area during the war.

Anyone owning any of these valuable souvenirs and wanting them returned should "sound off" within the next few weeks or else they will be destroyed.

Inquiries should be addressed to: Office of the Chief Censor AFMIDPAC, APO 958, c/o P.M., San Francisco, Calif.

The warm weather of late inspired Yours Truly to prophesy an epidemic of river and lake parties by the UK fraternities and sororities. Already in line are the Kappa Sigs who have taken their dates to the lake for the past three or four Sundays for a swim and weiner roast. The Pi KAs have planned a river party for their dates tomorrow night.

The Kappas will entertain their parents with a tea Sunday at four o'clock. The receiving line will consist of the Kappa house mother and officers. The house will be decorated with spring flowers. Freda Wade is in charge of the arrangements.

Delta Zeta Carol Doub is recently pinned to Dusty Rhoads, Pi K. A.

Hilly Bryant and Louise Jewett have been elected as official delegates to the Kappa Alpha Theta national convention to be held in Pasadena, California, this summer. Louise Wilson will be a visiting delegate from this chapter.

The Sigma Chi's will entertain with their annual Sweetheart dance tonight, at the Lexington Country Club. A dinner for Sigs and their dates will precede the dance, beginning at about 7:00. Music will be furnished by the Kentucky Knights. Henry Foushee is in charge of decorations and Dick Youngerman is in charge of general arrangements.

The Sigma Nu's will give a dinner dance tomorrow night at Gentry's Old Mill. William A. Toombs is in charge of arrangements.

The following Sig Eps of Kentucky Alpha chapter will leave tomorrow morning for the Sigma Phi Epsilon district convention to be held on the University of Tennessee campus in Knoxville: Cornell Clarke, president; Frank Young, comptroller; C. E. Martin, pledge master; James Lee Wood Jr., magazine editor; Dick Lowe; and Burt Franklin.

Maureen Taylor, Z.T.A., who graduated in December, was a recent visitor to the campus on her way to Arkansas.

Sam Weakley of Shelbyville was recently elected president of Omicron chapter of Alpha Gamma Rho. Other officers are: Tom Cobb, vice-president; Jimmy Welch, secretary; George Fucas, treasurer; Thomas Johnson, chaplain; Ed Johnstone, social chairman; Ed Water, pledge captain; Ralph Speaks, intramural manager; Matt Williams, reporter; David Hatchett, usher.

The Phi Deltis will be guests of the Thetas tomorrow afternoon from 4:30-5:30 at an open house.

Lawson, Fissel, Get Alpha Xi Honors

Miss Cary Lawson, arts and sciences freshman from Cincinnati, was chosen best pledge of Xi chapter of Alpha Xi Delta sorority at the annual Founders' Day banquet held April 17 in the Red room of the Lafayette hotel.

Miss Winifred Fissel, arts and sciences freshman from Benton, and Miss Lawson received the award for pledge with highest scholastic standing.

Mrs. R. F. Watts presented a check to the sorority representing proceeds from a carnival sponsored by the alumnae chapter.

Patsy Burnett, president of Xi chapter, was toastmistress. Pat Thomas, social chairman, was in charge of arrangements.

The Theta Mother's club is in charge of the arrangements.

A movie entitled Significant Sigs was shown at the Sigma Chi house three nights last week for members and alumni. One of the Significants, Milt Caniff, has sent the chapter an autographed drawing of his famous Dragon Lady.

The Phi Tau's will entertain with a hayride to the lake Sunday.

Golf News

By Don Towles

The UK golf team will open its season at Ashland golf course this afternoon, rain or shine, when they play Miami University. Golf Coach Frank Atkins has selected the men that he wants on his team by the process of elimination. Last week each tryout turned in the scores that he made on 54 holes, and from these scores Coach Atkins picked the nine highest ranking. From these players the first four will in all probability, be the ones selected to play against Miami this afternoon.

The men selected were, in order, as follows: Richard Hicks, Malcolm McMullen, Harry Cramer, Buck Weaver, Nick Nicholas, Howard Stephenson, Frank Huse, Charles Skidmore, and James Wilbur. The men who will play this afternoon, unless last minute changes are made, will be, Hicks, McMullen, Cramer, and Weaver.

The team has been practicing hard for the past several days and now seems to be in good shape to take on top opponents.

The schedule for the season is as follows:

April 25—Miami University, Ashland (here).
April 27—Tennessee, Ashland (here).
April 29—Cincinnati, Ashland (here).
May 3—Cincinnati, (there).
May 11—Tennessee, (there).
May 18—Miami, U (there).

Baseball

By "Hoot" Combs

Jim Powell, Bedford, Ky., flinger, was named today by Coach Frank Moseley as Kentucky's probable starting pitcher when the Wildcat baseball team opens its season against the Georgetown College nine on Stoll field Saturday afternoon. "Right now it looks like we'll have a good season," Moseley said, "but we'll know more about that after Saturday."

Moseley has not been able to devote all of his time to the baseball team as he spends most of the afternoon coaching the backs on the football team. He has not been able to look over all of the prospects for the team as practice starts at 2:30 every afternoon and since many of the enthusiasts have classes at that time, he has not been able to see the team at its full strength.

Although he is not yet sure of his starting lineup, he expects to choose them from the following men: Trivette or Rose, third base; Jones or Garrett, first base; Allin or Buttermann, catcher; Yessin, shortstop; Beard, second base; Gardner, left field; Dunlap, centerfield.

'The Lowe-Down'

By Dick Lowe

What has Coach Bear Bryant done to rejuvenate the football hopes at the University of Kentucky? The school, the ardent followers, and the competition are all wondering the same thing: what will the new coach and his staff come up with to keep Kentucky from being the welcome mat of all teams that come to the Blue Grass? Well, no one will really know until the season is under way in the fall, but the guess is that it couldn't be any worse than the aggregation that represented Kentucky last season. Bryant called an early practice to look over some hopefuls and then after reducing the squad to only those whom he said wanted to play football, he set about to teach them his style, starting with fundamentals.

The spirit that was so lacking last season was finally found when contact practice became a daily habit and the returning veterans led the way with their fighting spirit and determination.

Bryant was well pleased about the showing of most of the players and sideline coaches expressed the opinion that next season's Wildcats would be better than generally expected.

As we said before no one will know how Kentucky will fare on the gridiron next year, but they will be given an opportunity to see the members of the team in action and then over the summer months set up a coal stove club to decide the fate of the coming year. Coach Bryant announced that he would give the public an early view of the team in action with an inter-squad game, Friday night, May 3. The proceeds will go to the athletic fund. He has divided the squad up into two equal teams with Assistant Coaches Carmie Lassie and Mike Balisaris heading the White team and Assistant Coaches Frank Moseley and Joe Atkinson heading the Blue team. Bryant will not be connected with the team that night except as a fan in the stands.

The two teams will use the same offense, but will be permitted a maximum of two plays that will be unknown to the other team. The "I" formation and the Notre Dame shift will be used for the offensive plays.

The two teams will practice separately starting Monday and be separated until after the game. Members of the White squad are Haas, Green, Richards, Kazmierski, Drury, Beeler, Bean, McDonald, Hensley, Simpson, Southall, Ridge, Browning, Bentley, Chambers, Heltinger, Vincent and Robert Schifferdecker, Martin, Jones and Farris. Members of the Blue team are Lair, Gray, Browning, Serini, Cordell, Andrejunas, Heininger, Bradshaw, Althaus, Sengle, Moseley, Chieplach, Kuhn, Tunstall, Yost, Jacobs, and Phelps. The squad roster is as follows:

Name	Pos.	Ht.	Wt.	Year	Home Town
Althaus, Carl	E	6' 4"	198	Sr.	Louisville
Andrejunas, Robert	T	6' 6"	205	Fr.	New York City
Bean, Lewis	T	6' 6"	210	Fr.	Madisonville

The annual bowling tournament which begins Tuesday and continues the following Tuesday and Thursday, will be held at the Colonial bowling lanes. Anne Taylor, manager, has asked that all sororities and other organizations, who wish to enter the tournament, to send a team of three girls by 4 p.m. Tuesday to the "Bowling" Two teams may represent a sorority or organization.

The Glamourcats will play some stiff competition Saturday when colleges from all over the state journey to Lexington to compete for honors in softball, volleyball, badminton and tennis in spring play-day to be held at Transylvania. During the lunch hour there will be a meeting of the state-wide WAA officers. Courts for WAA tennis are open each Tuesday and Thursday from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Time Out!

By O. C. Halyard Jr.

This is the third in a series of articles written in an effort to promote spring sports at the University of Kentucky. It is our firm opinion that one of the best ways to promote the spring sports, especially since the season for them is so short, is by providing sheltered provisions for the early practice of these sports.

We firmly believe that the followers and fans of the University would like to see tennis, baseball, track and golf as well as football brought up on a par equal to that of any school in the country. Already our basketball team is second to none, and an extensive program to improve football at Kentucky is under way to the tune of $100,000. In addition to this the University is planning for a large field house to accommodate the crowds demanding to see the Wildcats in action on the hardwood, and to furnish provisions for a number-one swimming team.

Already tennis is getting back to the prewar level, and coach Moseley has said he expects to have baseball back to its prewar level in three years. Coach Jacobs and the boys are working hard to get Kentucky up in the sports world in track, and we mustn't forget that Wildcat golf teams were once respected by many schools.

As those of you know, who have been following our crusade, we proposed an inexpensive addition to the field house inclosing an area of ground from the weather, large enough for a couple of clay tennis courts, baseball infield, a track around the edge, and a putting green. All this may sound like a lot, but if you stop and figure, it could be confined to an area of reasonable size.

Once the small expenditure was made for the addition, a minimum of up-keep would be all that was necessary to furnish provisions indefinitely for the early practice of the sports. Surely, with such an opportunity to put Kentucky on top in all athletics, we won't let the expenditure of a little additional money stand in our way. Especially since we're already figuring in the hundred of thousands of dollars.

Some persons say why not be contented just to field first rate teams in basketball and football. On the other hand, there's a large

Tennis Team Plays

Kentucky fans had to put off until tomorrow their first opportunity to find out how the tennis team is going to stack up against real competition, when heavy rains in Cincinnati Wednesday necessitated postponement of the meet with the Bearcats until Monday.

However, the Wildcats will tangle with the Michigan State Spartans on the Downing courts tomorrow at 2 p.m. in what should prove to be some real tennis.

Kentucky, 7-0 victors over Georgetown in their opener last Saturday, and 9-0 victors over Berea last Monday, will travel to Cincinnati to play the Bearcats Monday afternoon. Following that they will leave for their four-day trip through the South during which time they will meet Tennessee Tech, Vanderbilt, Sewanee, and Georgia Tech.

According to Coach H. H. Downing, Cincinnati and Georgia Tech along with Notre Dame will probably furnish the Wildcats with their toughest competition this year. Kentucky will play Notre Dame here on May 11, after a return match with Cincinnati on May 8.

In the two meets already played, the Wildcats haven't lost a set in either singles or doubles. And one man of the team still can boast of a perfect record in games. John Meyerholz has won all four of his sets 6-0. In games lost, Billy Hedges ranks next, having dropped only four in four sets played. Captain Al Reynolds has lost six, Dick Meadows, nine, and Carroll Fears, ten. Tommy Asbury has lost only one game, but has played in only two sets of singles. In doubles Kentucky has lost 22 games while winning 63 out of ten sets.

Don't forget, if we are going to participate in a sport, let's be able to play any school in that sport and win.
